Schools for foreigners

There are schools where classes are offered in English, Chinese, Korean and other languages. Schools for foreigners are classified as 'Miscellaneous Schools' (Kakushu Gakko) according to the School Education Law (Gakko Kyoiku ho).

Some Japanese universities do not allow students who have graduated from schools for foreigners to take their entrance examinations.

Depending on each school for foreigners, some Japanese universities and graduate schools do allow students who have graduated from such schools to enter their schools. Please enquire at each school.
